

Abstract of the Disclosure

There is disclosed an improved clothes hanger, of the type provided with a clip in the upper part of both shoulders, known in technical terms as the "notch". The hanger clips are covered with an anti-slip material, deposited by over-moulding, smearing, pasting or with other known state of the art methods for the purpose of permitting the hanging on the hanger of light clothing articles not necessarily having straps for engagement by the clips or notches.